The paper which is published for advertising purposes will be issued once a month.

A TEAM of horses attached to a wagon loaded with lumber ran away from Walter & Humbertson's mill yesterday and dashed down the hill into the river. When near the water the reach of the wagon broke and the horses took to the river with the front wheels and tongue attached to them. An attempt was made by men in boats to get them on shore, but the current was too strong and weighed as they were with the wheels, the animals were carried down stream and drowned. They were eventually hauled out of the water by Mr. Durille, the low ferryman, and the wheels and harness away the claim of their owner at Humbertson's coal mine. The horses were owned by F. Gerrard, of Edmonton, who came here about six weeks ago from the province of Quebec. The loss is a serious one to Mr. Gerrard, who had invested almost all of his capital, some $200, in the team.

MALCOLM McDONALD and W. Tolton, of Beaver, the latter a partner of Scott, who left for Tete Jaune Cache last week, returned to Donald on the 1st, and reported the first fatality attaching to the Tete Jaune Cache gold excitement. McDonald and his mate, A. Machette, left Golden a fortnight ago in a boat which they built there, taking with them 100 lbs. of provisions. At Kinbasket Lake they were joined by Tolton, and decided to run the rapids on the Columbia River between Kinbasket Lake and the confluence with Canoe River. All went well till the boat reached 21 miles rapid, nine miles from Canoe river, where the boat struck a rock and upset. Tolton and Machette were in the boat at the time. Tolton saved himself by strenuous effort and Machette was drowned. McDonald was within a mile of the scene of the accident when it happened. The supplies were all lost and Tolton and McDonald decided to return by the trail to Donald and come on to Golden.

A GALICIAN woman, half starved and exhausted, with three small children, applied at the police barracks on Tuesday for food and shelter. She had walked all the way from Victoria having been nine weeks on the trail. The youngest child, a baby of 12 months, she had hauled the entire distance in a primitive home-made hand cart. She also contained the slim supply of rags which did duty for their covering when sleeping out at night. The other children were eleven and three years of age. The woman and her children had walked the greater part of the 30 miles from Fort Saskatchewan yesterday, through the continual down-pour of rain, bearing a note from the police at the Fort asking to be directed to the barracks here. They were taken in and fed, and through the kindness of Mrs. Powell, provided with dry clothes. Through the medium of an interpreter the woman then told that her husband had left her about three months ago to go to Calgary and get work on the railroad. They had never heard of him since and not having a cent of money or anything to eat had had to get out to avoid starvation. The unfortunate were given shelter for the night in the police barracks and taken over to the immigration shed, Strathcona, yesterday, where they will be cared for while the police endeavor to ascertain the whereabouts of the missing husband.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, JUNE 8th, 1899.

IMMIGRATION.

Readers of the BULLETIN will remember that from time to time this paper has felt it to be its duty to call attention to the undesirable as well as the desirable features of the immigration policy of the government, as viewed from the standpoint of this district and the settlers in it. For doing this it was fiercely attacked by alleged government newspaper organs and discredited as far as possible by government official reports. But what the BULLETIN saw clearly a year and two years ago because of its opportunities of close observation, which others at a distance did not see, and therefore did not believe, now that the immigration objected to has become large enough to attract their notice, is seen by them to be exactly as stated by the BULLETIN, much as they evidently dislike to acknowledge it. The fact that some two or three thousand Galicians had started from Hamburg for Canada, and that there were 50,000 more to follow was of such importance that it could not be ignored. It has therefore been dealt with by some of the party organs—in a very gingerly way. The Toronto Globe and Montreal Witness may be particularly mentioned. The Globe says:

"The arrival of Galician and Doukhobor immigrants in considerable numbers in this country has given rise to some discussion as to whether we are in danger of experiencing some of the troubles from which our neighbors have suffered in the attempt to assimilate foreign populations. In some cases in the United States the objection has been made to the low standard of living among the incoming foreigners, the lack of that desire for improvements in comfort and refinement which is one of the great civilizing forces. If, it is argued, a large number of people are content to live in squalor and ignorance, they tend to lower the standard of the whole population, especially by depressing the rate of wages in various occupations. It is objected that some of the arrivals are not likely to make good citizens; that they form colonies, cling to their language and habits, and in some cases return to their own country as soon as they have scraped a little money together. It is said in a recent work on city government in the United States that the naturalization of foreigners for immediate use as voters has been a source of great political corruption in the cities.

"There is, however, no doubt of the wisdom of being careful in the selection of immigrants, and of taking every means of assimilating them with the rest of the population and making them good citizens. The question of the period at which they should be allowed to exercise the franchise is one of careful consideration. To confer the franchise upon them before they understand the institutions of the country would be to inflict an injury upon them and upon the community at large. The franchise in the true sense does not mean the mere privilege of placing a cross opposite the name of A. or B.; it means the privilege of placing an independent and effective judgment on public men and measures; and if the measures are not understood the marking of the ballot is no better than the tossing of a coin."

It is only fair to the Globe to say that having delivered itself of this much truth it proceeds to live up to its record by saying that the objections at first recited only apply to immigrants who settle in cities, and that the present naturalization laws requiring three years residence before voting are a sufficient protection to the public interest, the danger to which the Globe sets out so clearly, and which it is so anxious (!) to guard. The idea that foreigners living in country settlements where they may well see or speak to no one except of their own kind from years end to years end, are more likely to assimilate with the rest of the people of the country than if they were living in cities where they were crowded on all sides by the institutions, the example and the language of the country is original with the Globe as also its idea that the presence of Doukhobor and Galician settlers in a neighborhood makes it easier for other settlers to build and properly conduct and support their churches and schools. As a matter of fact it is chiefly because of the difficulty which these classes of people create in these two particulars that their adjacent presence is objected to by other settlers.

The Montreal Witness, being more honest than the Globe is more outspoken. It heads its article: "The Hordes of Europe," and says:

"Talk of foreign missions! Canada seems likely before a year more is gone by to have upon her own domain a foreign mission work a hundred fold greater than any she has ever done in the task of Canadianizing the masses of continental now being poured on her shores at a rate that must sensibly affect the abundance of her public domain and very seriously influence her future. We should give thanks to God that now that this long impending flood has broken loose, it has come in so mitigated a form. * * * But those who are coming are not all either Doukhobors or Finns, and there is every reason to expect, possibly to dread, a wholesale migration of the semi-civilized peasantry of Poland, Hungary and Russia."

The various railways are prepared to handle this traffic, and will convey these people to the west, where, if permitted, they will settle together in large communities. It is of the utmost importance that this last should not occur, as only those who have travelled in the country they come from can tell what it would mean to have a new Galicia in Canada. A railway management whose stock is being rapidly appreciated by the profits of this traffic and still more by the increased value it gives to railway lands in the Northwest, looks of course with the most cheerful optimism on this movement, and assures us that the conditions of life in America will in time turn these people into citizens like ourselves. Those, however, who have at all observed the persistence of race characteristics, will realize that if this resolution is left to passive conditions it will be a work of centuries—they change their sky, but not their nature who cross the sea. And the more remote the customs and traditions of the old home become, the more charming and sacred they are apt to appear."

After all this indictment the only hope of the Witness is that the immigration department will scatter them well, a conclusion, not so treacherous, but more foolishly dangerous than that of the Globe.

The Winnipeg Tribune, too, which at first was inclined to view with approval the bringing in of settlers as distinguished from citizens, has seen new light, and editorially shows the very great difference between bringing in people of similar blood and institutions and traditions and aspirations with ourselves, and people who are aliens in everything.

Even the immigration department itself has given sign of recognition of the danger to which our people and institutions are exposed by withdrawing the bonus of $5.00 per head, usually paid to steamship agents for immigrants brought over, from some classes of these immigrants. It is probable, however, that something much more radical will have to be done before the ill effects of the policy of the past years can be counteracted.

AT GRAHAM.

The Hudson's Bay Company has received further advice of the names of people wintering in British Columbia on their way to the Yukon. These are at Fort Graham and vicinity, and are considered to be all fairly well provided for. There are no people wintering at Stuart's lake, McLeod's lake or Fraser's lake, as they all went out from there last fall. The following is a list of the names of the people referred to: R.C. Applegate, E. Goodall, T. R. Dunlap, Jos. Metzger, E. W. Monk, Lyle Davidson, Charles Adams, Jack Adams, Alex. Mackay, E. J. Smith, A.S. Cogwin, W.C. Todhunter, Marshall Heizer, C.B. Heizer, Mrs. C. ## SPORTS MEETING.

Notwithstanding the unpleasant weather and the rain which had fallen steadily almost for the past 48 hours, the turn out of citizens in the town hall on Tuesday evening to arrange for Edmonton's annual celebration was a large one, between 40 and 50 being present.

W. S. Edmiston occupied the chair and R. G. Hardisty was appointed secretary of the meeting.

The treasurer of last year's committee, Jas. McDonald, read a statement of last year's receipts and expenditures, showing a balance on hand, clear, of $582.12.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, and W. S. Edmiston re-elected president; F. F. Time was elected vice-president. For secretary R. G. Hardisty and W. H. Cooper were nominated and on balloting, W. H. Cooper was elected. Jas. McDonald was re-appointed treasurer by acclamation, and F. Oliver, M. P., patron.

Messrs. E. Brosseau, St. Albert; F. Mariaggi and W. F. Langworthy, Fort Saskatchewan and H. Wilson, Strathcona; were appointed honorary members of the management committee. For the executive there were 29 nominations. On a vote by ballot the following were elected: J. H. Morris, J. Looby, T. G. Lauder, C. Gallagher, and Wm. West.

Sports committee, (re-elected), Wm. West, R. G. Hardisty, Dr. Braithwaite.

Racing committee, (re-elected) E. Looby, Al. Brown, T. G. Lauder.

Track committee: A. Brown, T. Bellamy, T. P. Cairney.

Bicycle races were left to a committee of the bicycle club, to arrange events in conjunction with the executive committee.

It was decided to ask the council for the usual grant of $250 towards the sports.

The secretary was instructed to write the C. P. R. for reduced rates; also to write the H. E. Co., to ascertain if the race track could be procured for the sports this year.

On the questions of time and place when exhibition would be held, much discussion arose. P. L. McNamara, C. de W. MacDonald and C. Gallagher advocated the acquiring and improving of grounds which would be the property of the association, so that the improvements thereon might be permanent, and to that end favored the postponement of the celebration until the fall by which time the proposed grounds of the agricultural society could be prepared for a race track and athletic grounds.

A spirited objection arose to having the sports held on any other day than the 1st of July which, it was argued, had the advantage of being a national holiday, and furthermore, was the day which Edmonton had always celebrated for the past number of years. W. S. Edmiston spoke strongly in favor of the 1st of July. Jas. McDonald said the sports committee had a surplus on hand from last year and there was no reason to think that they would not have a larger surplus this year. If the committee was merged in the Industrial Exhibition Association, the association would absorb the surplus, instead of the citizens receiving the benefit of it. The Industrial Association was not the people, but a business corporation. He thought the proposed site of the exhibition association was too far out of the way, any way, and would never be a popular athletic ground.

After a great deal of argument in which considerable feeling was displayed on both sides, three motions were evolved out of the chaos: one that the sports be held on the 1st of July; an amendment that they be held on the 1st of September; an amendment to the amendment that the time and place be left to the executive committee. The amendment to the amendment was snuffed under, only three voting for it; and the amendment finally carried by a majority of two.

No celebration will, therefore, take place on the 1st of July, but the sports will be held on the 1st of September, the place to be arranged by the management committee.

At a subsequent meeting of the executive of the Industrial Exhibition Association, held yesterday afternoon, a committee consisting of Messrs. Gallagher, Laure, Short and McDougall was appointed to meet the executive of the sports committee with a view to arranging to have the sports held on the 1st of July, on the Industrial Exhibition grounds, on which work would be rushed in order to get them in shape. It was decided to let the matter remain in abeyance until Monday when it is expected a telegraphic reply will be received from the Hudson's Bay Co. at Winnipeg, in answer to the request of the sports committee for the privilege of using the present race track, when the committee will be in a better position to act and the matter will be finally settled.

Casimir, the Indian convicted on the charge of murdering Phillip Walker on April 15, was hanged in the jail yard at midnight on Friday morning. The trap at 3:05. There was no disturbance any kind. Casimir confessed the night before that he had killed Walker and admitted his crime to the over-indulgent guard.

RAILWAY COMMISSION.

Speech by Frank Oliver, M. P., House of Commons, May 29th, 1899. From Hansard.

J. G. Rutherford, liberal, M. P. for Macdonald, Man., moved for the establishment of a commission. In the course of the debate Mr. Oliver said:

Mr. Speaker I wish to express my satisfaction at this motion being brought before the house for discussion; not so much because I see in the wording of the motion, a final cure for all the difficulties we labor under in Canada with regard to railways, but because I see in the bringing forward of such a motion possibly the beginning of such a cure—not by any means the end. I fear that however well a railway commission may be composed, or however well it may be empowered, there are still difficulties in the adjustment of dealings between the people of the country and the railway companies which are beyond the reach of any commission. There are difficulties which arise at the very beginning; which arise, and necessarily must arise, in the legislation passed by this house, and which, when they have been allowed to have their origin in legislation here—cannot be dealt with by a railway commission. However, in so far as the appointment of a railway commission would be the beginning of a dealing with this subject; in so far as this motion brings the question up for discussion in parliament at this time; I am glad of the opportunity of raising my voice and I hope of casting my vote in favor of it.

The conditions existing in Canada have been alluded to as being paralleled in the United States. It has been said that they have a similar railway question there, and a railway commission to deal with that question. But I would like to say, that if the United States have a railway question Canada's railway question is ten times more serious than that of the United States; because, while we have a country as large as the United States and a population very much smaller, we have only two, or we will say three, railway companies in this country that give us any competition whatever; and in by far the greater area of the country, and in that part which contains by far the greatest possibilities for the future, there is only one railway company—and, apparently, only the possibility of there being only one. Therefore, while the United States, by reason of their situation and of their conditions, have unlimited opportunities of railway competition; we in Canada have not—nor is there in sight—anything which might be called real competition in railways. As the matter stands at present, and as far as we can see in the future, we are limited to a practical railway monopoly in this country. It is not a question of detail, it is not a question of small matters with us; it is a question simply: Whether the railroads are going to run this country or whether the country is going to run the railroads. That is the real question, and I put it in these words for the purpose of conveying my idea, that this motion, good as far as it goes, is only the beginning and not the end of the solution of the railway problem.

LOCAL.

Wm. HANSEN VAN ARUM left for Calgary on Tuesday.

BATTLEFORD HERALD: David Cooper left for Edmonton by the south train on Saturday.

The Battleford Herald remarks that "the weather there has been quite wet." Evidently we're not the only people who are getting a little of the same.

COMMERCIAL, June 3: The C. P. R. land sales for Tuesday last amounted to 4,000 acres, which included 3,000 acres in Northern Alberta.

Three Straws, of Rabbit Hills, was committed for trial by Insp. Wilson yesterday for illegally having in his possession a number of saw logs bearing the private mark of D. R. Fraser.

Between 25 and 30 Indians, men, women and children, were drowned on Friday in Lake of the Clouds, near Laggan, Alta., while coming to the reservation near that place, to attend the spring "potlatch."

MANAGER WALKER, of the Winnipeg theatre has been most fortunate in securing the Neill company for exhibition week beginning Monday, July 10th. All our citizens who attended the exhibition at Winnipeg last summer will remember the delightful performances given by this talented company of players. The Neill company last Saturday night closed a most successful nine nights engagement at the Winnipeg theatre. Crowded houses were the rule at every performance.

Owing to a disagreement between mine owners and workmen, a great number of mines in the Slocan are closing down and business is practically suspended. The miners are fighting for $3.50 for eight hour shifts. Nothing is in sight but a general closing down of the mines of the Slocan. The manager of the Payne mines has discharged 100 men, and the Noble Five, Last Chance, Sovereign, Ruth and Idaho have closed down, throwing about 200 men out of employment.

HENRY HOFFMEISTER, mentioned in a late issue as overlooking the country with a view to inducing a number of German families from Berlin, Ont., to emigrate here, has completed his tour of inspection and returned south this morning. Mr. Hoffmeister expressed himself as surprised and delighted with the country, and is determined to use his utmost endeavors to secure the settlement here of a large colony of people from Berlin, after which he intends returning to Germany to induce emigration from the fatherland. Mr. Hoffmeister is a well to do immigration agent who has been successful in inducing many immigrants to settle in the west. He is undoubtedly followed with success.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the council of the board of trade was held at 10 a. m. on Tuesday.

Messrs. Gallagher and Tims reported the action taken by the committee in regard to the improvements between Strathcona and Edmonton. The Northwest government have promised nothing definite, pending arrival of J. S. Dennis.

On motion of Gallagher—Tims, the secretary was instructed to write F. Oliver, M. P., asking that he request the government to make an appropriation to improve the Jasper Pass trail.

The secretary was instructed to write the C. P. R. and the manager of the Winnipeg industrial exhibition, asking that reduced rate excursion tickets take effect earlier at Edmonton than at points near Winnipeg, so as to give visitors from outlying points the same chance to secure accommodation as those nearer the city.

Messrs. Strang, Bellamy and Gallagher were appointed a committee to take steps to secure for Edmonton a court house and jail.

FOR THE NORTH.

John Kelly and Wm. Elliott expect to start to-morrow for the Landing, having been engaged by McNeill & Secord to take their steamer "Sparrow" down to Great Slave Lake. The steamer, which is now at Grand Rapids, will be piloted through the rapids by "Sparrow," the well known river guide, who joins the party at the Landing. The "Sparrow" was built last spring by Geo. T. Leitch, and is probably the finest boat ever placed on the northern rivers. On her voyage her owner was unsuccessful in getting her over the rapids and returned, afterwards selling the craft to the present owners. She has been in the last year at the Rapids. Before attempting to take her down all the machinery will be taken out and floated down in scows. At Smith Landing they will endeavor to take the heavy overboard and if unsuccessful in that will take it to pieces and portage it in sections. Chas. Carmichael left for the Landing yesterday with a scow which will be taken down to Fort Smith in a scow to assist the three scows already there in portaging.

The boat will spend this year at Great Slave Lake, and next spring go down the Mackenzie to Fort Reliance, and then to Smith Landing. Messrs. Kelly and Elliott expect to be away about two years.

GREAT SLAVE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Isaac Cowie, secretary of the board of trade, in receipt of a letter from the geological survey department at Ottawa, in which it is stated that Dr. Bell, the assistant director, has been commissioned by the department to go west and make a geological survey of Great Slave Lake. Dr. Bell will leave Ottawa with two men and one assistant in time to reach Great Slave Lake when it is clear of ice. The ice leaves the lake about the 1st of July, and will probably leave the Landing by the 15th inst.

Dr. Bell is one of the most able men in the employ of the department and it is doubtful if a better selection could have been made. He is a believer in the navigability of Hudson's Bay, and made two trips there, one in the Alert, and since with the late Diana expedition. He also went north from Edmonton in 1880, going down the Athabasca as far as McMurray.

A couple of experienced boatmen are required to accompany the party and persons desiring to apply might send their names to Mr. Cowie.

A DISPATCH from Vancouver says: "Miners who have returned from the north, after going over the Edmonton trail, tell of the disappearance of a band of ten prospectors, headed by J. Payne, lost in the wilderness. The skeleton of J. McNeely, of Saint Ste. Marie, was found, with a note accusing his comrades of deserting him. Deaths and general hard luck on the Edmonton trail." Nothing has ever been heard here of the loss of J. Payne and his party, and knowing the Manchurian like characteristics of coast correspondents, we give the dispatch for what it is worth.

The annual decorations of monuments in Queen's park, to the memory of the soldiers who fell at Ridgeway in 1866, and in the Northwest rebellion of 1885, took place at Toronto on Friday afternoon. The procession comprised 66 of the veteran association, British army and navy veterans, Battleford, Batoche and Red River association, drill corps of different public schools and members of the city regiment. When the ceremony of decorating the monuments was over, short addresses appropriate to the occasion were delivered by a number of prominent people.
